
MY GREAT REPORT

Casado Herrauez, Daniel
shreyjoshi2004@gmail.com

Gatri, Wathek
shreyjoshi2004@gmail.com

Gimenez Bolinches, Andreu
shreyjoshi2004@gmail.com

January 2, 2021

ABSTRACT

Robots are awesome. The word robot was introduced to the public by the Czech interwar writer Karel Čapek in his play R.U.R. (Rossum's Universal Robots), published in 1920. The play begins in a factory that uses a chemical substitute for protoplasm to manufacture living, simplified people called robots. The play does not focus in detail on the technology behind the creation of these living creatures, but in their appearance they prefigure modern ideas of androids, creatures who can be mistaken for humans. These mass-produced workers are depicted as efficient but emotionless, incapable of original thinking and indifferent to self-preservation. At issue is whether the robots are being exploited and the consequences of human dependence upon commodified labour (especially after a number of specially-formulated robots achieve self-awareness and incite robots all around the world to rise up against the humans).

Contents

1	Task Description	3
2	Motivation	4
2.1	Problem	4
2.2	Topic	4
2.3	Objectives	4
3	Conclusions	5
A	Stuff I forgot	6

1 Task Description

Review of the existent space rovers. With conclusions on the end (5-10 pages, no more)

2 Motivation

The motivation

2.1 Problem

something here

2.2 Topic

and there

2.3 Objectives

finish

3 Conclusions

In conclusions, robots are the best [TUG2017].

A Stuff I forgot

Robots are really, really great.